This seminar covers the two most popular topics in genealogy today, DNA and Databases. DNA testing and online Databases are providing more extensive, more conclusive, and more accessible data than ever before.

The 2014 seminar features two speakers to provide specialized knowledge in each of the topics covered.

Kathleen J. Callanan will provide fresh insight into DNA testing.

- DNA for Genealogy
  Learn about the latest in DNA tests and the most popular testing companies. Discover techniques for analyzing autosomal DNA matches which predict cousin relationships, and how the major companies differ in presenting test results. DNA analysis can prove or disprove relationships and may provide a breakthrough in your research. DNA testing is now affordable for nearly every researcher.

Donna Moughty will focus on databases in three sessions that make it possible to search millions of records from our living rooms. Venture beyond basic search using the tools demonstrated.

- Getting the Most Out of Family Search.org
  This session will look at the evolution of FamilySearch.org, focusing particularly on the resources offered and the use of the library catalog. Donna will explain the various databases available and outline effective search strategies you can use.

- Getting the Most Out of Ancestry.com.
  Ancestry.com offers the greatest number of online databases. These databases can help jumpstart your queries by searching a large number of records and in many cases linking you to images of original records. Donna will review the offerings at Ancestry.com and discuss expert strategies for utilizing these resources.

- Come Out, Come Out, Wherever You Are - Hide and Seek on the Internet.
  Is your ancestor hiding? How will you find that mischievous ancestor who remains hidden no matter how hard you seek? This session will provide tips on how best to use the many search engines to find your elusive ancestors by using facts you already know. Using advanced search features can increase your chances of success.
